Two Successful American Novels.

MR. BOOTH TARKINGTON'S "The Gentleman from Indiana" was published October 14, 1899. Though it was the author's first book, it had been so successful serially that we printed a first edition of 5500 copies—a very large number for a new novelist's work. In a month we had to reprint, 5000 more. Another month saw the end of this, so we printed 10,200 this time. In spite of the fact that from the middle of December till now is the duller time of the year for the booksellers, these are now practically exhausted, and we have ready to-day a fourth edition, making 26,000 copies in all. It's the "best selling book" right now in the biggest retail bookstore of New York City, and is undoubtedly about to add one more title to the list of phenomenally successful American novels. ($1.50.)

ANOTHER novel, just out, which bids fair to be very popular, is Mr. FRANK NORRIS'S "A Man's Woman." It's too soon to talk editions or thousands (it was published only a week ago), but we had to borrow back copies from some of our larger orders in order to supply the advance demand. It's a most dramatic story of Arctic exploration, presenting a problem of everyday life and duty which many an American woman is working out each day for herself. ($1.50.)

The same author's "McTeague," by the way, is in its 15th thousand.

NOTES IN SEASON.

THE H. B. CLAFIN CO. announce that they have purchased from Harper & Brothers their entire stock of "A Kentucky Cardinal," "Aftermath," "Flute and Violin," and "Blue Grass Region of Kentucky," all by James Lane Allen. These books are bound in cloth, silk, and three-quarters calf. This purchase is one of a series which the Clafin Co. announce they have in contemplation.

G. SCHIRMER, New York, has just published "A Biographical Dictionary of Musicians," compiled and edited by Theodore Baker, and illustrated with upwards of three hundred portraits from drawings in pen and ink, by Alex. Gribayédoff. The volume contains nearly six thousand sketches, particular attention having been given to the American and English subjects. The same publisher has also just ready a new issue of a translation, by J. H. Cornell, of Wilhelm August Ambros's excellent study in musical æsthetics, entitled "The Boundaries of Music and Poetry;" also, "The Great Piano Virtuosos of Our Time from Personal Acquaintance—Liszt, Chopin, Taussig, and Henselt," by W. Von Lenz, translated from the German by Madeleine R. Baker.

THE MACMILLAN COMPANY announce a new volume by Professor George E. Woodberry, entitled "Makers of Literature," which will contain reprints of his "Studies in Letters and Life," together with a number of essays that have appeared since his former little volume was published; "The Nervous System of the Child—its growth and health in education," a new book by Dr. Francis Warner, valuable to school teachers generally; "European Travel for Women," by Mrs. Mary Cadwalader Jones, a book which should be of use to women who intend to travel more or less alone in Europe; "The Bennett Twins," a novel by Grace Marguerite Hand, a new writer; also, "The Web of Life," a new novel by Robert Herrick, the scene of which is in Chicago at the time of the Pullman strike, the Debs riots, and the following years of business depression.

HARPER & BROTHERS have just ready a volume entitled "Elements of International Law," by George B. Davis, Professor of International Law at West Point, and Judge Advocate General, U. S. A. Though the work contains much of the matter published in the author's "Outlines of International Law," a change has been made in the treatment of the subject, and numerous additions have been made to bring the work up to the times. They will publish shortly Camille Flammarion's new book, entitled "Unknown," a study of modern psychic problems, the fragmentary appearance of which, in Paris, was severely and adversely criticised by the Spiritualists. The book deals with such subjects as manifestation, of the dying, telepathy, mental suggestion, second-sight, etc. They have in active preparation "Harper's Guide to the Paris Exposition."

D. APPLETON & Co. have just ready the revised and final edition of Herbert Spencer's "Principles of Biology." New chapters and three new appendices, with other additions, have increased the first volume to 706 pages. A new chapter and section, many new notes, and various other changes are presented in the second volume. They will publish immediately a historical novel entitled "The Gentleman Pensioner," by Albert Lee, the English novelist, whose former novel, "Key of the Holy House," attracted considerable attention. The scene of this romance is laid in the tumultuous England of the sixteenth century, at the time when the plots of the partisans of Mary Stuart against Elizabeth seemed to be approaching a culmination. The hero, Queen Elizabeth's confidential messenger, has a trust to execute which involves a thrilling series of adventures. They have nearly ready "A History of the Spanish-American War," compiled by Richard H. Titherington from Spanish and American official reports, and other authentic sources. The work is intended to present a popular and trustworthy story of the war, told in an entertaining way.

WEEKLY RECORD OF NEW PUBLICATIONS.*

The abbreviations are usually self-explanatory. c. after the date indicates that the book is copyrighted; if the copyright date differs from the imprint date, the year of copyright is added. Books of foreign origin of which the edition (annotated, illustrated, etc.) is entered as copyright, are marked c. ed.; translations, c. tr.; n. p., in place of price, indicates that the publisher makes no price, either net or retail, and quotes prices to the trade only upon application.

A colon after initial designates the most usual given name, as: A: Augustus; B: Benjamin; C: Charles; D: David; E: Edward; F: Frederic; G: George; H: Henry; I: Isaac; J: John; L: Lewis; N: Nicholas; P: Peter; R: Richard; S: Samuel; T: Thomas; W: William.

Sizes are designated as follows: F. (folio: over 30 centimeters high); Q. (4to: under 30 cm.); O. (8vo: 25 cm.); D. (12mo: 20 cm.); S. (16mo: 17½ cm.); T. (24mo: 15 cm.); Tt. (32mo: 12½ cm.); Fe. 48mo: 10 cm.). Sq., obl., nar., designate square, oblong, narrow books of these heights.

The death, two years ago, of Bishop Coxe, who had already put his hand to this work, led to the task being transferred to the present writer. Hence the late appearance of the volume. The "Apostolic age" is generally taken to cover the period of some forty years between the crucifixion and the destruction of the Temple. Within this falls not only the narrative contained in Acts, but also nearly all that we can reckon historic in what reaches us otherwise touching the Apostles, those, namely, who were contemporaries of Jesus Christ.

Chalmers, T., D.D. Christian and civic economy of large towns; abridged and with an introd. by C: R. Henderson. N. Y., Scribner, 1900. c. 6+350 p. D. cl., net, $1.25.

Thomas Chalmers was born March 17, 1780, and died May 30, 1847. He was a teacher of mathematics and a popular preacher; his great interest in economic and political problems was evinced in the unabridged original of his work published in 1826. The text of that work is carefully reproduced, repetitions being omitted and often illustrations, to bring it into smaller compass. Material is presented in the introduction intended to criticize obsolete doctrines of the author and as an appreciation of those teachings which have contemporary interest.

Cleveland, F: A. The South African conflict—its legal and political aspects. Phil., Amer. Academy of Polit. and Soc. Sci., [1900.] 40 p. O. (Publications of the society, no. 265.) pap., 35 c.

The author's conclusions are as follows: "If we view the conflict between Great Britain and the Boers from the standpoint of British imperial policy rather than that of international law and national justice, we are led to the conclusion that the assertion of British supremacy in South Africa was inevitable." "By forcing the issues to a point which left the Boers no alternative but war, the British Government violated the sense of justice of a considerable portion of the people of Europe and America, and alienated the support of a large portion of her own South African colonists." An English historical romance of the sixteenth century. Fairfax Flamsteed, one of Queen Elizabeth's body-guard, known as "Gentlemen Pensioners," is sent by the queen with an important letter to Lord Hunsdon, who is raising an army in the west and south for defence against the partisans of Mary Stuart. Spies, knowing his mission, strive to rob him of the missive. Cunning trickery, attempted assassination, and fierce, deadly assault are employed against him. After many adventures he delivers the letter.

- Norris, Frank. A man's woman. N. Y., Doubleday & McClure Co., 1900. c. '99-1900. 5+286 p. D. cl., $1.50.
The story opens in the Arctic region, with a small handful of men lost in the ice, the remnant of an expedition sent out to find the North Pole. The two heroes are introduced, intimate friends of opposite characters, whose loyal love for one another leads to a falsehood with one of them about a woman they both love. The woman is a trained nurse. The return of the men to civilization brings the woman into both their lives in a dramatic manner. Arctic exploration is again the final theme. By the author of "McTeague."

Sedgwick, Ellery. Thomas Paine. Bost., Small, Maynard & Co., 1899. c. 15+150 p. por. T. (Beacon biographies.) cl., 75.

"The purpose of this small volume is," says Ellery Sedgwick, "to tell the story of Thomas Paine without bias and without arguments. It is difficult, indeed, to write of Paine without enthusiasm for his genius and a lively recognition of his great services to liberty. But his faults are set down frankly. The reader shall be judge and jury."

Smith, Minna Caroline. Mary Paget: a romance of old Bermuda. N. Y., Macmillan, 1900. c. 6+326 p., map, D. cl., $1.50.

The time is the reign of James I. of England; the historic frame to the story is the shipwreck of the Sea Venture, which inspired Shakespeare with his theme for "The Tempest." Mary Paget is a beautiful girl whose love story in the isolation of "the still vexed Bermoothes" is complicated by the struggle there between the Established Church and Puritanism.

Tarbell, Ida M. Life of Abraham Lincoln; drawn from original sources and containing many speeches, letters, and telegrams hitherto unpublished. N. Y., Doubleday & McClure Co., 1900. c. '95-1900. 2 v., 11+426; 5+459 p. il. por. facsimiles, O. cl., $5.

The two series of articles on Lincoln's early and later life, which have appeared during the last few years in McClure's Magazine, are contained in these volumes, with considerable supplementary matter. These series embraced a vast amount of new material in the form of letters, speeches, telegrams, and reminiscences of contemporaries of Lincoln, still living. Much of the data bears strongly upon Lincoln's relations to General Grant and the conduct of the war; and a great many statements accepted by other biographers regarding his parents are disproved.

 shortly open a bookstore.

The Publishers' Weekly.

FOUNDED BY F. LEYPOLDT.

FEBRUARY 10, 1900.

The editor does not hold himself responsible for the views expressed in contributed articles or communications. All matter, whether for the reading-matter columns or advertising pages, should reach this office not later than Wednesday noon, to insure insertion in the same week's issue.

Books for the "Weekly Record," as well as all information intended for that department, should reach this office by Tuesday morning of each week.

Publishers are requested to furnish title-page proofs and advance information of books forthcoming, both for entry in the lists and for descriptive mention. An early copy of each book published should be forwarded, as it is of the utmost importance that the entries of books be made as promptly and as perfectly as possible. In many cases booksellers depend on the PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY solely for their information. The Record of New Publications of the PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY is the material of the "American Catalogue" and so forms the basis of trade bibliography in the United States.

"I hold every man a debtor to his profession, from the which, as men do of course seek to receive countenance and profit, so ought they of duty to endeavor themselves by way of amends to be a help and an ornament thereunto."—LORD BACON.

A CLEARING-HOUSE FOR "PLUGS."

OUR recent article on "dead" stock has called forth suggestions from the trade as to practical solutions of the difficulty, one of which we print in another column. Methods for the exchange of books not wanted in one place, but of possible value in another, have been much discussed in the library field, and to some extent "clearing-houses for duplicates" actually exist, as that for the exchange of government publications, with a view to completing sets, in the office of the Superintendent of Documents at Washington. Melvil Dewey, who has been a pioneer and leading advocate of such an exchange system, has planned on somewhat similar lines in connection with the New York State Library.

But the actual deposit of books for exchange purposes in one place presents many difficulties even in the library field that would be prohibitive for commercial reasons in the book-trade field. It is probable that the libraries themselves will come to some system of card entry or advertising notification for this purpose—somewhat on the lines suggested by Mr. Tewksbury's interesting and suggestive letter. We shall be glad to make a practical experiment in this direction, and for that purpose shall open our "Books for Sale" column or make a column of "Books for Exchange" at a rate reduced to five cents a line for entries amounting to one hundred lines at one time; i.e., at the present price for fifty lines one hundred lines can be inserted, the price for less than one hundred lines, however, being as now at ten cents a line. We should be willing to try the experiment as a gratuitous feature but that this would invite an overloading of our columns by the entry of titles for which there would be no reasonable hope of sale or exchange. It is necessary to take practical precautions against entry of books for which there is not likely to be value in exchange, and it would not be worth while to print in our columns titles of books on which the dealer did not have at least five cents' worth hope of a sale.

It will be difficult to effect such exchange by the old-fashioned process of barter, book by book; therefore it will be necessary to make a money basis for exchanges by pricing offerings at a figure low enough to induce a dealer elsewhere to take the risk of handling this class of stock. These prices may either be given with the book titles or be ready for any inquiries; if prices are not given it will be understood that inquiries are to be made of the advertiser. But in many cases exchanges, though balanced in money, can be arranged practically as a "swap," so that on neither side would it be necessary to make any substantial actual investment. The happy result may be that at the mere cost of transportation each dealer may find himself possessed of such books as will sell in his neighborhood in place of such books as he found it impossible to sell. We have assurances that a fair trial will be given to this plan on the part of some dealers, and we trust the trade generally will co-operate in trying the interesting, and possibly valuable, experiment.

BOOK PRODUCTION IN ITALY IN 1899.

ACCORDING to the Bolletino delle pubblicazioni Italiane, there were published in Italy, during 1899, 9855 books and journals, or 123 more than in 1898, classified as follows:

Lombardy, as usual, issued the larger number, heading the list with 1822 publications, while Calabria brings up in the rear with 30 publications.

THE STATIONERS' BOARD OF TRADE DINNER.

THE STATIONERS' BOARD OF TRADE gave its annual dinner at the Waldorf-Astoria, New York, on the evening of the 7th inst. There were present about 125 members of the Board and their friends—just enough to fill the attractive Myrtle Room set apart for the occasion. Henry C. Bainbridge, the enthusiastic as well as efficient president of the organization, acted as chairman, and was ably supported by his entertainment committee.

When the cloth was removed Mr. Bainbridge announced that, almost to a man, the speakers who had promised to be present had defaulted, and read letters of regret from the Hon. Timothy L. Woodruff, the Rev. George R. Van De Water, Admiral Dewey, and other notabilities. However, he did not despair, because he felt certain that a number of those present would be ready and able to entertain the company until the small hours of the morning, if his hearers had patience to hold out that long. Continuing, Mr. Bainbridge said: "Those of you who know how persistently I have advocated the perpetuation of our old custom of annual dinners will appreciate my feelings upon being permitted to preside over such a representation of our members as are gathered here to-night, and I thank you for your hearty co-operation in making this affair a success. I said you would do it, and I was not mistaken."

"I believe that it has been a mistake to have allowed a year to pass without one of these social reunions, and I look upon this affair more as a social reunion than anything else. Look around these tables and tell me if you think that this well-fed-looking crowd need to go away from home to get a dinner, even in such a palatial room as the one in which we are assembled. But a social reunion we nevertheless need. We need it as business men, to meet old friends and make new ones. We need it as members of the Stationers' Board of Trade, to meet each other away from the cares and restraints of business surroundings. The Stationers' Board of Trade needs that its members meet in social reunion—the oftener the better—that the interest and enthusiasm which has stimulated those who have governed and directed its policy may be perpetuated and kept alive."

"A dinner, or social reunion, this year is peculiarly appropriate. A little more than a year ago our Board was almost prostrated through the defalcation of a trusted employee. It is right that we should rejoice that we have lived through it; that we have enjoyed the most prosperous year in our history; paid our debts at maturity, and carried over a handsome surplus. It is right that we should rejoice over the year of prosperity which we, in common with all other industries, have enjoyed."

"Never have our mills and factories been busier, our work people more steadily employed or better paid. The demand for the products of field and factory have come from not only all corners of our own land, but our exports to all quarters of the globe have exceeded those of any year in American history, due, in a measure, to the fact that we have had plenty and to spare. It was also due to the fact that American quality is making a market for itself, and American products in paper, as well as in other goods, have found a market at their own price by reason of American superiority in quality and style."

"The American paper-maker and the maker of paper goods have made wonderful strides since some of us young men were boys. I can remember when the great bulk of the fine writing paper and envelopes used in this country was imported from England, France, and Germany. The same is also true of coated and glazed papers, bristol boards, playing cards, etc., and vast quantities of printing paper. To-day only a very few standard brands of foreign writing papers can be found in our stores, and imported envelopes are a curiosity. The sale of imported coated, glazed, and printing papers is confined to a few specialties, and the American playing card is the most perfect manufacture of paper of which I know anything about. I believe these remarks will also apply to pens, ink, lead-pencils, and many other products of the American stationer and the kindred trades."

"Now a few more words about the Stationers' Board of Trade. This Board was founded in 1875, and incorporated under the laws of the State of New York in February, 1879. It is governed by a board of eighteen trustees. Since its foundation most of the best-known names among stationers, publishers, paper-makers, and the kindred trades have taken active interest in its management and support. Those of us who have availed ourselves of its facilities know that it is right in principle, useful in practice, and is entitled to the support of the craft. Its life and vigor depend upon the new blood which each generation must give to co-operative work. Without this infusion of new blood neither this nor any other organization can live and progress. Whether this Board will be as well off, or better off, next year depends upon the interest you take in your corporation. I urge upon you the importance of lending a hand. When you cannot spare the time, look to it that some representative of your house shall take the interest which you for the time being cannot take in helping to administer this Board. It is not necessary that you should be an officer to help; you may help by devoting a little time and thought to the character of the reports that are made regarding the financial standing and credit of merchants. You may help by sending claims for collection to this office instead of to outside parties. You may help by sending claims in bankruptcy cases to this office. 'In Union there is Strength' is an adage frequently exemplified in these cases, and in nearly every case it is more profitable to go to the Board with these cases than to give them to an outside attorney whose sole object, very likely, is to increase his fees. You may help by 'kicking,' if you are dissatisfied; but 'kick' in a manly way, and bring the dispute before the trustees. These gentlemen are not serving you for their own amusement, or for pay. They are all interested in improving the efficiency of the Board wherever possible, and to convince you that you cannot conduct your business as well without its aid as you can with it. I am very much pleased that the financial condition of the Board is as good as it is, and, while I feel perfectly satisfied in my own mind that the majority of our members get more for their money out of our Board than they do out of any other similar organization to which they may belong or subscribe to, I would like to see the cost of membership reduced. It can be done by co-operation if the members will do a little missionary work. We cannot afford to hire missionaries to go out and preach the gospel of the Stationers' Board of Trade and bring in converts. We expect that our members will make some effort to induce others in their trade to join, to enjoy the benefits and privileges, and to help reduce the general cost.

"We lost about twenty-two members by the consolidation of the wall-paper makers, and nearly the same number in the fall of '98, when there seemed to be an impression abroad that our old institution was going to pieces because it had been robbed. We did get a hard blow; but we did not default on a single payment, and every man who, on resigning, presented his certificate of stock for redemption, got his cash. Now the excitement of that affair is over, we are sailing on smooth seas again, and we want to get back to our old numerical strength. New members are coming in every month, but occasionally one drops out. Therefore we want to put on a little extra effort and make the tide flow in a little faster. Tell your trade friends what the Board is doing for you, and what the quality of the mercantile reports is. Tell them how promptly collections are made, how quickly you get your money after it has been collected. One of our members might tell of a claim of about $1800 which he sent in last year, and for which he was ready to accept 40 per cent. cash. The Board collected 97 per cent. of this for him, and several others participated in this same settlement, all on the same basis. That tells the story! I might mention several similar collections made during the year.

"In conclusion, let me remind you that you owe a certain amount of service to this organization. Your duty is not fully performed by the payment of annual dues. You should attend the meetings, particularly the annual meeting, and cast your vote in person and not by proxy. Support the trustees, and impress it indelibly on their memory that if they will get up a dinner next year you will be on hand and help eat it."

Mr. Bainbridge then introduced as the speaker of the evening the Rev. Dr. D. Parker Morgan, of the Church of Heavenly Rest, New York, who chose as his subject Trade Guilds and their Moral Effect. Dr. Morgan spoke entertainingly for half an hour or more, tracing the history of the great corporations in England and paying a high tribute to their moral influence not only upon the crafts which they represent, but also upon the community at large.

John A. Taylor, of Brooklyn, an old friend of many members of the Board, delivered a stirring address on the possibilities of the American merchant in the development of the commerce of the future. He evidently echoed the sentiments of many present, as his oration was frequently interrupted by hearty applause and cheers.

Mr. Taylor was followed by ex-Judge Charles N. Taintor, Patrick Farrelly, and A. Growoll, who spoke informally in behalf of the book trade. Among the other speakers representing the stationery trade were I. M. Loughhead, of Loughhead & Co., of Philadelphia, George Vernon, and George C. Boorum.

The company adjourned shortly after 11 o'clock and then spent an hour pleasantly in a more intimate gathering.

The souvenir of the occasion was a papier maché model of an old-fashioned ink-pot, which did temporary service on this occasion as the vessel in which a sorbet prunelle was offered.

THE BOOKSELLERS' LEAGUE DINNER.

THE Fifth Annual Dinner of the Booksellers' League, given at the cosy rooms of the Aldine Association, on the evening of the 5th inst., was a gratifying success. Nearly one hundred representatives of the book trade were present; all the speakers put in an appearance; the dinner, of seven courses, was excellent and promptly served, good feeling prevailed, and hence every one went home feeling that the evening had been profitably and agreeably spent.

The post-prandial programme was introduced by the President, W. H. Parker, who said: "Five years ago, one stormy night, our first meeting was held; a can of tobacco and pipes enough to go around were provided for our entertainment. From that humble beginning, in unattractive surroundings, to this bountiful repast and these cosy, almost luxurious surroundings, what a change! And yet, our past has been one of much enjoyment and benefit, attended by but few discouragements. We have had many able speakers, who gave us of their knowledge; and we have had music; and song, and story; but, above all, we have drawn closer to each other and become intimate. A few years ago we were strangers, most of us, to one another; to-day we belong, as it were, to one happy family.

"We would emphasize, on this occasion, for the benefit of the employers who may be present, that our organization's purpose is entirely different from that of similar organizations in other trades. While these are banded together, as a rule, to endeavor to get more money out of their employers without giving any more in return, the Booksellers' League has been striving to make better and more efficient help. Hence, every firm should give us their heartiest support.

"Our membership is steadily growing, our finances are sufficient for our present needs, our meeting place is attractive, and the enthusiasm of our leaders is unabated. I may therefore congratulate every member on his good fortune in belonging to the Booksellers' League."

W. B. Van Ingen, the first speaker, gave an interesting description of Japan and its people, in which he dwelt particularly on their honesty in their intercourse with each other and strangers. This characteristic, he thought, made the Japanese artist's work so attractive to the artist, especially in his development of the line which is never meaningless in Japanese art. He told a number of anecdotes to prove this.

Edwin Markham, author of "The Man with the Hoe," spoke on the subject of "Books and the light they have given me," though he opened his remarks by reminding his hearers that he could "but touch on his subject as a bird touches the ocean." The books that had influenced him most were the Veda and the Book of the Dead; the writings of Confucius and Mencius, or Meng-Tseu, the Chinese philosopher; Æschylus, Socrates, and Plato; Omar Khayyám, Dante, and Shakespeare, especially his "Tempest." Among the moderns, Shelley, Browning, Tennyson, Emerson, Hugo, and Goethe. From these he learned that "poetry is a universal language; religion is to be found in all religions; and that humanity, everywhere and in all ages, is the same. The study of literature breaks down all prejudices. It is the greatest power and force for the world's advancement, and in all ages, and under all conditions, has led the world's onward march."

Foster Crowell, formerly engineer of the United States Nicaragua Canal Survey, gave an interesting and edifying account of the difficulties to be overcome in completing the proposed Nicaragua Canal. By means of fine stereopticon views he gave his audience a vivid idea of the country and its people.

Ernest Seton-Thompson, who was under contract to complete a certain amount of work for The Century by the following morning, could only run in for a moment to keep his promise to tell a story, which he did most acceptably.

Barclay Dunham, well known to the trade, favored the company with a number of songs.

At the close of the entertainment each one present received as a souvenir a copy of Mr. Markham's "The Man with the Hoe," recently issued in paper covers by Doubleday & McClure Co., in which the author obligingly wrote his autograph. Another souvenir of the occasion was the artistic menu and programme. The front cover design of the booklet represented a bookshop of yesteryear in winter. The sign over the shop announced the Fifth Annual Dinner of the Booksellers' League. On the back of the cover was a dainty symbolical design of a little girl holding up an opened book to a bust resting upon a high pedestal. The cover paper was of a delicate green shade. The front cover design was printed in sepia and red, and was impressed upon the cover. The entire programme, including the design, was the work of H. T. Carpenter, one of the members of the League and presented by him as a gift to the League. A few of the covers have been struck off on large paper and signed by the artist. They may be had at E. P. Dutton & Co.'s, at one dollar each, while the supply holds out. The dinner committee consisted of E. W. Johnson, S. Edgar Briggs, and H. T. Carpenter, who are to be congratulated upon their efficient administration of the whole affair.

A MEETING OF NEELY'S CREDITORS

ABOUT seventy-five of the creditors of F. Tennyson Neely met in the office of Morris S. Wise, referee in bankruptcy, at 52 Exchange Place, New York. A number of the creditors were represented by their lawyers. Duncan Edwards, counsel for the trustees, explained that there were finished books among the assets, appraised at $10,750, which ought to be sold at once. This appraisal he considered too high, but the sooner the books were sold, he said, the greater would be the sum realized, and he therefore asked for the trustees' permission to dispose of these assets as seemed best without specific authorization from the 1032 creditors for each sale. This would be better than selling at auction, he said, and he cited the case of the Rev. Madison C. Peters, who had offered $500 for the plates of his own books and a fair price for the books in stock.

"What with the claims from authors for copyrights, plates, etc.," said Mr. Edwards, "the whole matter bids fair to be soon involved in inextricable confusion."

After a hot discussion of over an hour it was voted to give to the trustees appointed to settle the affairs of the bankrupt firm full power to dispose of the assets as they might see fit, and in such manner as would be of the most benefit to all creditors concerned.

Mr. Neely, who was present at the meeting, was on several occasions denounced in harsh terms as having been most unscrupulous in his business dealings. Others were inclined to the view that the publisher had been a victim of circumstances rather than that they were his victims.

IMMORAL ADVERTISEMENTS.

JUDGE THOMAS, of the United States Circuit Court, New York, on January 22, ruled that the Federal statutes make no provision to punish a person who uses the mails to tempt another to buy immoral books or obscene pictures and then, failing to deliver such articles in return, keeps the money sent for them. William Scott, who is a bookseller in Brooklyn, was brought before Judge Thomas on an indictment charging him with illegal use of the mails to defraud. The indictment was found upon evidence submitted by Anthony Comstock, who received a circular sent out under the name of Leon Depew, a pseudonym, so Comstock claimed, used by Scott. Scott said that it was not, and that there lived in Brooklyn a man by the name of Depew, who sent out circulars, which contained a list of books bearing suggestively immoral titles, any one of which, the circular said, would be sent on receipt of $1.

Writing from Louisiana and from Pennsylvania, under assumed names, Comstock asked for a couple of the books bearing titles which seemed to him suggestive. He enclosed $1 for each book, and received in reply a letter from Depew saying that the books named were not in stock and that he could not deliver them until a consignment came from Paris. He kept the money and Comstock had him indicted. Comstock was in court with Assistant United States District Attorney Baldwin, who attempted to conduct the prosecution. Judge Thomas dismissed the indictment before any evidence was taken.

"As much as I despise the writer of that circular," Judge Thomas said, "my conscience would trouble me if I allowed this case to go on, believing, as I do, that the law provides no punishment for such an alleged crime. I cannot even allow a recess while you try to fortify your position by looking up and citing cases to uphold it."

"But think of the protection of the mails," Mr. Baldwin urged. "How can we protect the boys and girls if we allow such circulars to be sent."

"A few cases of boys and girls losing their pocket money and getting nothing in return for it will make them exceedingly chary of sending their cash for immoral literature and obscene pictures," said the Judge. "Dissemination of such things is moral murder just as much as there is physical murder. Should a person agree with another to commit murder and then fail to do it he could hardly be prosecuted for fraud. If a man should go into a shop and pay for an immoral book or picture and find, when he opened his package at home, that he had instead a picture of the Madonna, or a good book, he would have no redress against the bookseller. Any one answering that circular would know that the books named in it were immoral, that it is unlawful to traffic in obscene or immoral literature, and the recipient would be as guilty as the sender."

COMMUNICATIONS.

A PLAN TO EXCHANGE BOOKS.

Editor of The Publishers' Weekly.

DEAR SIR: Your recent article on how to dispose of "plugs" is pertinent; but why not go a step further and carry out your own suggestions?

In order that the surplus of one dealer may be available to supply the deficiencies of other dealers it is necessary that there should be some channel of communication constantly open between dealers in all parts of the country; this you have in your widely-circulated trade journal. The plan also must be simple, must be an immediate possibility without waiting for general concert of action, and it must be self-sustained, from a financial point of view. You have the facilities for inaugurating a plan which meets the conditions named. Open up an Exchange Department in THE PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY, charging a moderate amount for space occupied, just enough to cover cost, getting your profit from the large increase in subscriptions which would certainly follow, and invite every bookseller to offer his surplus stock for sale at prices low enough to make it an object for other dealers to send for it.

Results. First: Every dealer in the country would find it a necessity to look these lists over every week as it would save him money. On a large library order one could probably work in many of these books, bought below usual price.

Second: He would be warned against loading up too heavy with books others had found to be slow sellers.

Third: Publishers would be more disposed than they now are to relieve their customers of their surplus by exchange or otherwise, rather than see their books advertised among the "plugs." This might seem at first thought to work against the interest of publishers; but in the long-run it would not, for the easier they can make it for customers to close out their stock, the more readily they will buy next time. It is not for their real interest to see their customers lose on any of their books.

OBITUARY NOTES.

THE REV. JOHN KENNEDY died in London on the 6th inst. He was born in Aberfeldy, Perthshire, June 14, 1813. From 1887 to 1890 he edited The Evangelical Magazine. Among his numerous publications are "The Natural History of Man," "Handbook of Christian Evidences," "The Self-Revelation of Jesus Christ," and "Old Testament Criticism and the Rights of Non-Experts."

WILLIAM HENRY GILDER, the explorer, a brother of Richard Watson Gilder, died at his home in Morristown, N. J., on the 5th inst. He was born in Philadelphia, in 1838. At the outbreak of the Civil War he enlisted as a private in the Fifth New York Volunteers, (Duryea's Zouaves;) afterwards he was transferred to the Fortieth New York, of which his father was chaplain. In 1864 he was commissioned captain, and two years later brevetted major. After the war he became managing editor of The Newark Register, founded by his brother, Richard Watson Gilder. From 1878 to 1880 he was second in command of the Franklin Search Expedition. In 1881 he accompanied the De Long expedition in the Rodgers; when that vessel was destroyed by fire on the western shore of Behring Strait, Gilder was assigned to take the news to the nearest telegraph station, which involved a winter journey of nearly two thousand miles across Siberia. After accomplishing this task he joined in the search on the Lena Delta for the survivors of the Jeannette. He was the author of "Schwatzka's Search—sledging in the Arctic in quest of the Franklin records," and "Ice Pack and Tundra—an account of the search for the Jeannette and a sledge journey through Siberia." Of late years he had written for various newspapers and magazines, until failing health put an end to his activity.

LITERARY AND TRADE NOTES.

THE widow of Friedrich Fröbel, the founder of the kindergarten system, has just died near Bad Liebenstein. She survived her husband by nearly forty-eight years.

STREET & SMITH announce for immediate publication a new issue of "The Heavenly Twins," the copyright and plates of which they recently purchased at the sale of the Cassell Publishing Company's plant.

A. C. McCLURG & Co., Chicago, will publish shortly a story entitled "The Cardinal's Musketeer," by Mary Imlay Taylor. The scene is laid in France during the period of the nominal reign of Louis XIII. and the actual reign of Cardinal Richelieu.

THE DODGE PUBLISHING CO., 150 Fifth Avenue, New York, have just ready a popular treatise on the subject of heraldry, entitled "Heraldry Simplified," by Frederick Curtis, with a glossary of technical terms and nearly two hundred drawings.

D. C. HEATH & Co. have just ready in their series of careful editions of the French classic masterpieces Molière's "L'Avare," prepared with helpful and scholarly introduction and notes by Professor Moritz Levi, of the University of Michigan.

WILLIAM H. YOUNG, of Troy, on the 5th inst. celebrated his fiftieth anniversary as treasurer of the Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute. During Mr. Young's term over 1000 students have been graduated, and considerably more than two million dollars have passed through his hands.

ABRAM P. T. ELDER, a publisher of religious books, was sentenced in the U. S. District Court in Chicago, on the 8th inst., to one year in the county jail. Elder advertised for agents for the sale of his books, and, it is said, gave them nothing for the money they advanced for salesmen's outfits.

FORDS, HOWARD & HULBERT will publish immediately "Sunday Afternoons for the Children: a mother book," by Mrs. E. Frances Voule, a New England teacher and lecturer on child-training. The book aims to give, by divers ingenious devices, the means of busying the restless little brains and fingers that so often find Sunday afternoon a burden. It should be a boon to perplexed mothers.

HENRY HOLT & Co. have nearly ready "The Practical Study of Language," by Henry Sweet, of Oxford; "Specimens of Forms of Discourse," compiled and edited by Dr. E. H. Lewis, of the Lewis Institute, of Chicago; Thackeray's "English Humorists," edited by Prof. Wm. Lyon Phelps, of Yale, and Tennyson's "The Princess," edited, with analytical questions, by Prof. L. A. Sherman, of the University of Nebraska.

THE publishers report that the sale of the series of medical dictionaries by Dr. George M. Gould has reached over 100,000 copies. When one takes into consideration the fact that there are not more than one hundred and twenty-five thousand physicians in this country and that there are probably not more than two hundred thousand English-speaking physicians in the world, this success is phenomenal, and could only be accorded a book of scientific merit and practical worth.

A SPECTACULAR play, based upon the story of the Second Crusade as told by F. Marion Crawford in "Via Crucis," is being written by a well-known playwright and will be put on the boards in the near future. The title of the play will probably be "The Way of the Cross," the literal translation of the symbolic Latin title of the novel, the popularity of which seems to be growing rapidly. Within a week of The Macmillan Company's announcement that it has run into its sixtieth thousand comes the news that it is now in its seventieth thousand.

THE MACMILLAN COMPANY will publish in the spring the following new volumes in Macmillan's Pocket American Classics: "The Sketch Book," "The Alhambra," "Selections from Poe's Prose Tales," "Franklin's Autobiography," "The Vision of Sir Launfal," and "The Deerslayer." This series is 18mo in size, a handy shape, and each volume is provided with notes, portraits, and introductory aid for the studious reader. They will also start a similar series of English Classics with Books 1 and 2 of "Paradise Lost" and "Julius Cæsar," and "Marmion."

A. WESSELLS COMPANY have an important work in "London Souvenirs," by C. W. Heckethorn, historic and anecdotal reminiscences of Old London. They also issue Grant Allen's

"Historical Guide Books," of which there are four: "Paris," "Florence," "Cities of Belgium," and "Venice"; also, "The House of Commons," by Sir Richard Temple. Other books on the list of the Wessells Company include "Concerning Teddy," by Mrs. Murray Hickson; "The Search of Ceres," a book of poems by Sarah Warner Brooks; and "A Catalogue of the Drawings of Aubrey Beardsley," by A. E. Gallatin.

G. P. PUTNAM'S SONS have just ready "Alexander the Great—the merging of East and West in universal history," by Benjamin Ide Wheeler, President of the University of California, a new volume in the Heroes of the Nations Series; "The Priest's Marriage," a character study, by Nora Vynne, author of "The Blind Artist's Pictures," etc., relating the experiences of a priest of the Roman church who renounces his vows and marries, and afterward repents and looks upon his marriage as a sin, which forms number 42 in the Hudson Library; "A Book of Whales," by F. E. Beddard, which is said to be the first work devoted entirely to the subject, a new volume in the Science Series; also, "Reminiscences of Morris Steinert," who has been closely identified with the progress of music during the last half-century, compiled and arranged by Jane Marlin, and fully illustrated.

THREE uncommonly interesting Kipling lots will come up for sale at Sotheby, Wilkinson & Hodge's, in London, on March 2, all three being the property of the writer's mother, Mrs. Alice Kipling. The rarest of all is the copy of "Schoolboy Lyrics," 1881, in the original wrapper, which is decorated with two pen-and-ink drawings of flowers, etc. The second lot is a copy of the "Echoes of Two Writers," 1881, in the original wrapper, with the autograph of Mrs. Kipling; at the beginning and end of some of the pieces there are inscriptions in pencil. The third lot is a copy of the rare first edition of the "Departmental Ditties," 1886. In the same day's sale, but another property, there is a second copy of the "Schoolboy Lyrics," which, according to the London Athenæum, "seems to be uncommonly plentiful for a 'probably unique' book, as the copy that first came up for sale was described."

HERBERT S. STONE & Co.'s recent importations include the following volumes of the Victorian Era Series: "Charles Kingsley and the Christian Social Movement," by Charles William Stubbs, D.D., Dean of Ely; "Recent Advances in Astronomy," by Alfred H. Fison; "Provident Societies and Industrial Welfare," by E. W. Drabrook, Chief Registrar of Friendly Societies; "English National Education," a sketch of the rise of public elementary schools in England, by H. Holman, Professor of Education at the University College of Wales, etc.; "The Growth and Administration of the British Colonies, 1837-1897," by the Rev. William Parr Greswell; "The Free-Trade Movement and its Results," by G. Armitage-Smith, Principal of the Dirbeck Institution, etc. Among the forthcoming volumes in this series are "The Growth of London, 1837-1897," by G. Laurence Gomme; "The Science of Life," by J. Arthur Thomson; and "Indian Life and Thought Since the Mutiny," by R. P. Karkaria, Principal of the New Collegiate Institution.

AUCTION SALES.

[Under this heading advance notices will be inserted, without charge, of book auction sales to be held anywhere in the United States. Word should reach this office not later than Wednesday noon, to insure insertion in the same week's issue.]

FEBRUARY 13, and following days, 10 A.M.—Clearance and remainder sale of books and electrotype plates, including invoices from Burrows Brothers Co., Fords, Howard & Hulbert, Franklin Square, Bible House, C. E. Giles & Co., Little, Brown & Co., Longmans, Green & Co., The Macmillan Co., G. P. Putnam's Sons, S. G. Raines, G. H. Richmond & Son, George Routledge & Sons, Scott, Foresman & Co., Scott Stamp & Coin Co., Thomas Whittaker, and 14 invoices for account of whom it may concern.

TERMS OF ADVERTISING.

Under the heading "Books Wanted," book-trade subscribers are given the privilege of a free advertisement for books out of print, of five lines exclusive of address, in any issue except special numbers, to an extent not exceeding 100 lines a year. If more than five lines are sent, the excess is at 10 cents per line, and amount should be enclosed. Bids for current books and such as may be easily had from the publishers, and repeated matter, as well as all advertisements from non-subscribers, must be paid for at the rate of 10 cents per line.

Under the heading "Books for Sale," the charge to subscribers and non-subscribers is 10 cents per line for each insertion. No deduction for repeated matter.

Under the heading "Situations Wanted," subscribers are entitled to one free insertion of five lines. For repeated matter and advertisements of non-subscribers the charge is 10 cents per line.

All other small, undisplayed, advertisements will be charged at the uniform rate of 10 cents per nonpareil line. Eight words may be reckoned to the line.

Parties with whom we have no accounts must pay in advance, otherwise no notice will be taken of their communications.

Parties desiring to receive answers to their advertisements through this office should either call for them or enclose postage stamps with their orders for the insertion of such advertisements. In all cases we must have the full address of advertisers, not necessarily for publication, but as a guarantee of good faith.

BOOKS WANTED.

In answering, please state edition, condition, and price, including postage or express charges.

Houses that are willing to deal exclusively on a cash-on-delivery basis will find it to their advantage to put after their firm-name the word [Cash].

Write your wants plainly and on one side of the sheet only. Illegibly-written "wants" will be considered as not having been received. The "Publishers' Weekly" does not hold itself responsible for errors.

It should be understood that the appearance of advertisements in this column, or elsewhere in the "Publishers' Weekly," does not furnish a guarantee of credit. While it is endeavored to safeguard these columns by withdrawing the privilege of their use from advertisers who are not "good pay," booksellers should take the usual precaution, as to advertisers not known to them, that they would take in making sales to any unknown parties.

New Books.

Alexander the Great.

The Merging of East and West in Universal History. By BENJAMIN IDE WHEELER, President of the University of California. No. 26 in the Heroes of the Nations. Fully illustrated. 12mo, $1.50.

President Wheeler has written a picturesque and interesting life of Alexander, not only of historic interest but also of dramatic interest. As a serial in The Century Magazine the work attracted considerable attention on both sides of the Atlantic.

The Priest's Marriage.

By NORA VYNNE, author of "The Blind Artist's Pictures," etc. No. 42 in the Hudson Library. 12mo, $1.00; paper, 50 cents.

The author has worked out his situations convincingly and interestingly. The book, though in no sense melodramatic, is powerful.

The Stage as a Career.

A Sketch of the Actor's Life, Its Requirements, Hardships and Rewards. By P. G. HUBERT, Jr. 12mo, $1.00.

"Mr. Hubert has given a great deal of timely and interesting information regarding the best training for the stage, dramatic schools and teachers."—New York Herald.

A Book of Whales.

By F. E. BEDDARD. No. 7 in the Science Series. Fully illustrated. 8vo, $2.00.

This book, the first to be entirely devoted to the subject of Whales, is so written by the author that it is of popular interest as well as of scientific interest.

Reminiscences of Morris Steinert.

Compiled and Arranged by JANE MARLIN. Illustrated. 12mo, $2.00.

Mr. Steinert has been closely identified with the progress of music during the last half-century, and his reminiscences will be of great value.

Problems in Ethics,

Or Grounds for a New Code of Rules for Moral Conduct. By JOHN STEINFORT KEDNEY, author of "Christian Doctrine Harmonized," "The Beautiful and the Sublime," etc. 12mo, $1.50.

Reviewing the Kantian order of precedence, the author considers the aim of morality before he considers the grounds of morality. Having formed a theory as to the aim of morality, he applies this theory to the ethical problems of every day.
